

Myths and Realities of Intellectual Property Law in the Time of Covid-19

Tuesday, July 14 | 3-4:30pm

The pandemic brought about a massive shift in how the arts sector works with schools and communities to provide enrichment for students and adults. Teaching artists, performing artists and arts partners jumped in with both feet to provide high quality virtual instruction for youth and content for broader audiences. As we traverse uncharted virtual territory filled with new opportunities and challenges, the sector needs to understand what kinds of protections are necessary to ensure both individual artists and nonprofit rights are protected.

Join us for a moderated discussion with lawyers, David Gold from Cole Scholz P.C. and Lori Landew of Audible Inc. to clarify misconceptions and highlight the realities of intellectual property law. Special guest, Christine Duffy, from ProBono Partnership will also share information on how nonprofits can access additional legal recourse. PLEASE NOTE: While this session will provide invaluable information, the panelists will not and cannot provide legal advice.

We are seeking questions to the panelists in advance. Please use the link to Slido to ask and comment on your colleagues' questions.

*This session will be recorded

Register Here

Submit Questions

Celebrating more than

Volunteer Lawyers Strengthening
Nonprofits & Our Communities

Cole Schotz P.C.

audible

